OUR ROUNDABOUT POCKET.

The Probate side of the County Court, Judge Fredeline Bross, presiding, convened this morning, and will probably remain in session during the week. An adjourned session of the court for county business will convene on the 2nd of July.

The position of first assistant has been tendered to Mrs. Hallowell, and the wish that she will accept it seems to be general, it being a position that she filled during the past year in a manner highly satisfactory to everybody.

-There has been no service in the church of the Redeemer during the past two weeks, owing to the absence of the rector, Dr. Coan. His return, during the present week, is looked for; and it is said that his wife has so far regained her health as to be able to accompany him.

-Our tobacconists have found it a difficult matter to secure a sufficient force of eigar-makers to supply the demand for Cairo cigars. The material used is so much superior to that employed elsewhere, that the demand for the Cairo brands is immense, intense and inflexible.

-J. W. Carter, whose frantic efforts to commit suicide, were detailed in a late number of the BULLETIN, is still an inmate of St. Mary's infirmary. The ghastly gash in his throat is "suppurating finely," and no further trouble with it is apprehended. This wound, it will be recollected, he inflicted with his pocket knife, in an attempt to terminate his existence, while laboring under a fit of insanity.

-The Directors of the Caire Public Schools have employed the following teachers for the scholastic year to commence next September: Principal, Mr. H. N. English, assistants, Miss Frank Beebe; Mrs. C. S. Sage, Miss Shields, Miss Maggie Aubery, Miss Alice Simons, Miss Mary E. Kelsey, Miss Mattle Warwick, Miss A. Hatch and Miss Mary Hawkins,

-The displacement of a plank in the Walnut street high sidewalk, above Fourteenth, has made an ugly hole that may cost the city another $1,675. A young man who happened to pass under the side walk at that point says that he found two shoe buckles, four resoftes, seven odd garters, and about a bushed and a half of "dried curses."

-Among the patients in St. Mary's infirmary is a little boy, only five years old, the soli of widow Clavin. Several weeks age he fell into the fire and was severely burned. During a period of a week or more the little fellow's life trembled in the balance, but he is now convalescing. He is a bright-eyed little fellow, and endures the severe ordeal through which he is passing like a little hero. The saddest feature of the case is that the little fellow's injuree will make him a cripple for life.

- Legis Herbert opened his new restaurant, in the Springfield block, this morning, with one of the finest and most elegantly served lanches ever spread in our city. It embraces quite everything that is pulatable to be found in our market, and there was an abundance for everybody. The crowd present to discuss it was large, jovial and happy. - Mr. Samuel Walters, the lumber man after an absence of several weeks in Pennsylvania, has returned home, and may be found, as of old, among his stacks of lumber, at the corner of Commercial avenue and Tenth street. He took Chiengo in his route home, and purchased there a large assortment of fine lumber, embracing the best qualifies to be found in that market. This purchase will arrive in a few days and be added to his aiready, large stock thus enabling him to supply quite all the demands of thecountry.

-Go to Peter Neff's if you want a stylish Summer hat, clothing to suit the season, or anything in the line of gents' furnishing goods, fully ten per cent, cheaper than the same articles were ever offered in this

-The committee appointed by the City Council to mature plans for settling the claims of citizens, that have arisen under the street filling assessment, met on Saturday last, and canvassed the matters charged to them sufficiently to learn that a perfectly satisfactory adjustment is quite impossible. The committee arrived at no definite conclusion of course; but seemed impressed with the idea that a collection of the amounts due, from the delinquent property holders should at least be attempted. No doubt is entertained as to the right and power of the city to collect from delinquents. The only question is the feasibility of such a course.

Tug editor of the Paducah Herald, with the gravity of an antiquated owl, speaks contemptuously of the "vi' lage of Metropolis." He should read his dicitonary, which will tell him that a village is "a small collection of houses in the country." We have been to Metropolis and we have population; and, except the tobacco business and the capital invested in it in Pacapital in Metropolis, and fewer loafers and dead beats, than in Paducah.

Metropolis, in spite of the "15th." is a Democratic town, and has our respect and good wishes; but to our contemporary of the City of Paducah, there is nothing good on this side of the river,

STABBING AFFAIR.

Missouri farmer stabs and mortally wounds a Steamboat man. He is arrested and Imprisoned.

Johnson Malone, a resident of Rush's times, etc. Ridge, Mo., visited Cairo on Saturday last, to purchase family supplies. He made his purchases and shipped them by ferry boat; but having taken a glass or two with a friend, he felt decidedly hilarous and concluded to remain in town and have a "time of it." During the afternoon he fell in with a steamboatman named Mike Duffey, and feeling very liberally disposdrank with him, and afterwards treated him. The pair then walked down the Levee, stopping at the foot of Fourth street. Duffey appeared exceedingly anxions that his newly meade acquaintance BULLETIS. should accompany him down Fourth street; but Malone stubbornly refused to go. Duffey finally became insultingly importunate, when Malone shoved him off somewhat roughly, with the remark : "Go off, and let me alone. You want my money, I wont have anything to to with you." This rebuff was not sufficient, however, to drive Duffey away. He continued to urge Malone to accompany him down Fourth street, catching hold of him and trying to force him along. Malone finally became somewhat exasperated, and dealt Duffey a blow with his fist, exclaming at the time: "Let me alone, d- you; 1 don't want anything to do with you. Shortly afterwards Malone passed into Mr. Lehning's clothing store, and bought a pocket knife, for which he paid a half iollar. "That fellow wants to rob me," he remarked, "and if he don't let me alone I'll cut him. "He then passed out to the sidewalk, and was again accosted by Duffey, who had not, it seems, abandoned the idea of getting him down Fourth street. He warned Duffey to let him alone -told him that if he did not, he would ertainly cut him. About a minute afterwards he assailed Duffey with a knife, inflicting a severe, if not mortal wound, at a point just below and to the right of the sternum. The blade of the knife entered near the point of the sternum, and made a ternal oblique abdominal muscle, probably penetrating the lower portion of the lungs. The wounded man was conveyed to St. Mary's infirmary where he received prompt and skillful medical attention, and where, under the kind nursing of the sis-

Malone, was immediately arrested, and on him, yesterday, and found him asleep, Awakening him, we asked for his version of the unfortunate affair, and he solemnly protested that he was unable to recall any under the influence of liquor; recollects thing that will not only give employment Y. He says that he is not a drinking man, and that his neighbors will cheerfully testify that he is not a quarrelsome man. He has no money or property with which to pay a lawyer.

Duffey is a large, robust man, about thirty years of age. He has been running the river as a deck-hand for two or three years, and, during the past five months, has made his head-quarters at Cairo. When we called upon him yesterday he was comparatively easy, and entertained strong hopes of an early recovery.

Malone is under the impression that he sed his pocket knife; but a bystander says that the cheese knife found in the vicinity is the knife that was used. As Malone's pocket knife presents no stains or other evidence that it has ever been opened, the onclusion is rather unavoidable that the wound was inflicted with the cheese knife.

HOW TO COMPUTE SIMPLE INTEREST. Mn. Epiron:-I frequently notice in the papers, (and especially in a late number of the BULLETIN) directions how to compute simple interest. Having had considerable experience in computing Interest, and using, as I think, a much more simple rule than any I have seen published, I submit it to you for publication. For RULE.-First find the interest on one dollar for whole time at 6 per cent. Then multiply the principal by the interest of the one dollar and you will have the interest required at 6 per cent. Then divide this product by six and you will have one which can be multiplied by whatever rate is required. (Why not find the interest on one dollar at 8 per cent, at once, and avoid all this "circumlocution?"-ED.)

The simplest way to find the interest on one dollar, is to take one-half of the even number of months, and add it to the sixth part of the whole number of days for mills, including the days in the odd month, been to Paducah. Metropolis has 3000 Half of thirteen is .06 cents. The odd month is 30 days, and 24 makes 54, which divided by 6, makes .009. Add it to the 6 ducah there is more business and more makes .069 cents-interest on one dollar for the whole time.

This rule is founded on the fact that there being 12 months in the year, the half of which is six, and 30 days a legal month, and every 6th of which makes one mill interest. Therefore, to answer the question first proposed, I multiply $75 by .069 cents, and get $5 175 cents, interest at 6 per cent. Now divide this by 6, I get $0.8025, interest at one per cent. will be 8 times as much, or $6 90; 10 per cent. 10

This rule is easily worked and remem-Yours Resp'y, etc. WM. E. THOMAS. bered.

The above tedious and complicated rule is given as an improvement upon the fold, asked Duffey to drink with him. Duffey divide by 6. Divide by 45 and you will have interest at 8 per cent. Divide by 36 and you will produce interest at the rate of 10 per cent.

Certainly no rule could be simpler .- Ep.

Mr. Davidson, the energetic proprietor of the Ballard warehouse, certainly deserves all the success he is promised, He offers remarkably liberal premiums, and will pay every dollar of them in gold; and furthermore he has provided a market for the planters of the surrounding country that is eminently deserving of their patronage and support.

As is already well known, the fair will be held in the city market house, on Wednesday next. The sales will follow the distribution of the premiums; and we have been assured that the largest board of buyers will be present that ever congregated in Cairo. A number of the most extensive buyers and manufacturers from St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Louisville and Cincinnati have signified their purpose to attend, and will undoubtedly be on hand. The presence of these gentlemen will insure the most satisfactory sale of all the tobacco entered for premiums or otherwise.

We had heavy rains on Saturday night and Sunday was almost clear, with a pleasant temperature. The morning is clear, but so very warm that another storm would not surprise us.

The river has risen about 20 inches since Saturday, and is still rising rapidly. Large quantities of drift have been passing from the Cumberland, which is still rising, with 25 feet on Harpeth shoals.
